LOCATION

Welcome to Genoa

Genoa is a charming city in Liguria, heart of the Italian Riviera, one of the most picturesque and beautiful regions of Italy, with a wealth of sports and activities all year round.

Flaubert declared that Genoa, Italy's largest sea port, had "a beauty that tears the soul".

Over the last few decades, the city has shaken off its gritty port town identity, replacing it with that of an authentic and modern coastal metropolis. Genoa has changed greatly and there will be a lot more major changes in the years to come.

GENOA 2.0

The new Genoa Waterfront

TAKE A WORLD-FAMOUS ARCHITECT

Renzo Piano, who designed the Georges Pompidou centre in Paris, London's Shard and New York's Whitney Museum, has designed a new blueprint for his native city, restoring a view of the sea to its people.

AND ADD A BEAUTIFUL HARBOURSIDE CITY

By demolishing a series of built-up spaces, new navigable canals will be created parallel to the coast, with a width of between 40 and 60 metres, allowing pleasure craft to cruise the entire length of the seafront.

"We are aiming to bring the sea back to an urban area that will have trade show zone, nautical workshops, residential spaces and a strategic place for sports"

Marco Bucci, Genoa City Mayor

Genoa is evolving as the government invests in infrastructure, developing a new waterfront called Waterfront di Levante.

The Waterfront di Levante is currently one of Italy's most remarkable urban developments nationally.

This project creates a new landmark on Genoa's seafront, with new urban and port functions, both public and private. These include a large urban park, a new dock, residences, offices, retail facilities, a luxury hotel and the new sports hall. It is an urban regeneration project that transforms what was previously the back of the port into a new urban front on the sea, reconnecting the East and West,

Corso Italia and the Old Port.

A NEW BOARDWALK

There will be a "Passeggiata a mare" or what the French call "promenade" "promenade", a boardwalk along the water to provide an urban but nautical experience to pedestrians.

URBAN PARK

The urban park covering almost 16,000 m² and more than 2,000 trees is a connecting element between the city and the port, between the historic walls and the new modern water front canals.

THE PALASPORT

The sports hall is designed for CONI homologation in order to host the top series of all indoor sports and accommodate large events, shows and concerts, with a thematic commercial district on the ground floor open to the public.

The development will be completed by a student housing complex, waterfront residences and office and workshop space.
